

Follow Mountain Planet's Community on Facebook for new articles

Vanessa O'Brien becomes the first woman to reach Earth's highest and lowest points

This article first appeared on <http://thenews.com.pk> The original can be read here.

Mrs Vanessa O'Brien, Pakistan's Goodwill Ambassador, has taken Pakistan's flag to the deepest point in the ocean named Challenger Deep, at 10,923 meters. If Everest were put in Challenger Deep, it would still be 2 km under water. During this descent she became the first woman to reach Earth's highest and lowest points, a Guinness World Record, and one in which she shares with Victor Vescovo, the pilot of the submersible with whom she completed this dive with, said a press released.

